

THE GARDEN ROAD SCHOOL

presents:

Creating Limits that Allow Freedom

Part of our workshop series “Developing Natural Genius” for parents and educators

MONDAY, JANUARY 26TH 7:00 – 8:30PM

Limits and freedom are often perceived as opposing forces rather than complementary ones. Our educational approach at the Garden Road begins with presenting the view that limits and freedoms work hand in hand. This workshop will take a practical look into setting natural limits that allow for the freedom of a child’s natural genius to blossom.

Presented by: Terese Giammarco

Terese is a co-founder of the Garden Road School. She brings multiple areas of expertise to the Garden Road and offers a unique approach to incorporating the arts into education. She currently teaches preschool and elementary grades and is the Project Brilliance coordinator for children with learning differences.
